LEARNING ACTIVITIES AND METHODOLOGY

The skills of knowledge and attitudes to be acquired by students through lectures, by individual resolution of small cases that will be developed in class. In addition, videos will be used to illustrate the practical application of theory and solving cases that require group work. The skills will be worked through individual and group work by students.

The course will have the following development:

Students will receive three types of teaching material during the course:

- 1) Material theory using the teacher in the lecture,
- 2) Cases to be performed, and
- 3) Information videos to view and discuss. Small cases and cases that require group work are linked to all parties that comprise the agenda as described in the detailed program. Homework should be given to the teacher via email before the day fixed for correction in the schedule. 6 ECTS credits correspond approximately 3 contact credits, 2 credits of group work for solving tasks, and 1 credit personal work for the resolution of small cases. The aim of the lectures is that students learn the theory necessary to interpret the purchase by the components of the markets. Understanding and practical application of the concepts are reinforced cases.

ASSESSMENT SYSTEM

The evaluation system is divided into two types: (a) continuous and (b) final.

In order to be able to add the mark corresponding to the continuous assessment (a), a minimum grade of 5/10 points will be required in the final exam (b). That is, you need to have an approved 50% of the correction criteria used for the final exam.

Continuous assessment (a) is based on the solution of class cases and the written delivery of group cases (30% of the grade) and the written presentation of a project (20% of the grade).

The final evaluation consists of an exam (which will account for 50% of the final grade)

Both evaluation systems will aim to verify the extent to which the competences of knowledge and adaptation to new situations have been acquired by the student.

The business management functions involve, in addition to individual knowledge and skills, coordination with other areas. For this reason, the course requires students to develop the ability to work both autonomously and in a group. Therefore, the students will be valued for their individual effort as well as their contribution to the group's result.

In summary:

(a) Continuous evaluation:
