LEARNING ACTIVITIES AND METHODOLOGY

¿The course includes both plenary lectures and practical sessions

A main aim of the course is to get students involved in the learning process, offering the basic tools in order to reasoning and debating the topics and readings of the subject program

Students will be encouraged to compare the different ideologies and authors presented throughout the plenary lectures.

Researching skills will be developed through the depth study of one particular ideology. By the end of the course, students must be capable of:

a) Finding its roots

b) Identifying its main authors and point out in what ideas they agree/differ

c) Giving examples of its presence in concrete political phenomena

Once the research is finished, students must defend firmly their choice, and prove that they know the main differences with the rest of the ideologies included in the program

ASSESSMENT SYSTEM

Final exam (50% of the final grade). Students are expected to get, at least, a 50% in the exam to pass the Overall Assessment. A midterm exam could eventually be proposed Continuous assessment activities (50% of the final grade), that include: obligatory readings, final version and public defense of the group project, individual interventions along the sessions.

% end-of-term-examination: 50

% of continuous assessment (assignments, laboratory, practicals...): 50
