REQUIREMENTS (SUBJECTS THAT ARE ASSUMED TO BE KNOWN)

Being a subject of 4th course of the Security Engineering Degree with 6 ECTS and a subject of great interest for professional duties, it is recommended to have overcome the greatest number of subjects in previous courses

OBJECTIVES

The skills that the student is expected to acquire are the following:

- To develop leadership skills that allow the future officer the command of human teams in professional situations.
- To be aware of what your role as a Corps commander means, reducing the uncertainty in facing the responsibilities he/she has to take.
- To know the techniques and procedures to materialize their functions as managers of an organization oriented towards police work.
- To know a series of procedures for analysis, rationalization and decision-making procedures based on scientific methods, reducing the margin of improvisation and the risks involved.

For this, it is necessary to achieve the learning results summarized below:

- To know the theoretical and epistemological bases on which the exercise of leadership is based.
- To know and understand the main factors of aptitude and attitude that influence the behaviour of the individual as commander.
- To understand the bases of the functioning of group dynamics that facilitate the participation, management and leadership of work teams.
- To train to choose the most effective management style adapted to the situational context, including multicultural aspects.
