DESCRIPTION OF CONTENTS: PROGRAMME

This course is proposed as a general introduction to gender studies, from a philosophical point of view. The category "gender" has been answered initially from feminism; but from queer theory, and the growing interest in masculinities, it has become a category that deserves to be analyzed in other contexts and from other additional perspectives. In essence, the course will try to analyze, and perhaps deconstruct, some ideas around the opposition sex / gender, as the foundation of a whole series of versions of the sexes and the life forms derived from them.

Part I: From biology to culture.

1. Metaphysics of the sexes
2. The origins of patriarchy

Part II: Sexual politics.

3. The sexual contract.
4. The public and the private.
5. "Our bodies, ourselves".

Part III: Against heterosexual thinking:

6. Lesbians are not women.
7. Queer theories.

Part IV: The revolution to come:

8. The masculine identity.
9. The new masculinities.

Part V: Gender and Biopolitics.

10. King Kong theory.
11. Counter-sexual politics.
