LEARNING ACTIVITIES AND METHODOLOGY

Teaching activities:

During their undergraduate studies, as well as during the common module of the master's study plan, the students have acquired a solid theoretical background. Therefore, during the specialization credits it is possible, to a greater extent, to do without lectures. The teaching will be structured across practical cases. Specific materials will be given in advance to resolve these cases. This will allow the students to confront actual practical issues.

For each of the optional courses of 3 ECTS, to reach 15 ECTS, the workload is the following:

Hours of theory: 20 h. Hours of practice: 10 h. Hours of work by the student, and other activities: 45 h.

. Teaching methodologies:

A series of practical cases will be given to the students, which will be resolved following a detailed schedule. Each lesson will be accompanied by specific readings (scholarly writings, case law, regulatory materials). Everything should be understood without prejudice to the possibility by the teacher of making a brief theoretical introduction at the beginning of each session to identify the fundamental problems, and placing them within the unit which is discussed at each moment.

ASSESSMENT SYSTEM

% end-of-term-examination/test:

% of continuous assessment (assigments, laboratory, practicals...):

Bearing in mind the predominantly practical nature of the activities and teaching methodology, a particular weight will be given to the ongoing assessment. This will consist in the participation of students in classes (15% of the grade) and the resolution of cases (50% of the grade).

The final exam will consist of a multiple choice, which will determine the 35% of the grade.

Everything in accordance with the applicable rules at each moment

If the continuous assessment system is not followed, which requires attendance at 90% of the sessions, the final mark in both ordinary and extraordinary sessions will be obtained on 60% of the final exam.
