LEARNING ACTIVITIES AND METHODOLOGY

Taking into account that students in their undergraduate training as well as in the common module of the curriculum have acquired a solid theoretical background, in specialization credits may be dispensed with more of the traditional master class by articulating the teaching in each subject based on practical cases. For whose resolution will be provided in advance specific materials This will allow students to face real practical problems, in the different areas of specialization, since it will be necessary to return to the contents Theoretically, the cases presented must be complemented by a thorough study of each Particular discipline on the part of the students so that they can overcome the various subjects.

ASSESSMENT SYSTEM

% end-of-term-examination:	40
% of continuous assessment (assignments, laboratory, practicals...):	60

In accordance with the eminently practical nature of the training activities and methodologies Teachers in the intensification credits will give a special weight to the continuous evaluation.

1) Continuous evaluation (60%):

-Resolution in writing of the practical cases.

2) Final exam (40%): it will consist of a test type of about 20 questions.

If the continuous assessment system is not followed, which requires attendance at 90% of the sessions, the final mark in both ordinary and extraordinary sessions will be obtained on 60% of the final exam.
